RAYLASE Announces Appointment of UK and Ireland Representative to Maximize Customer Response Rate Following the Success of the Strategy in Italy.

Mac Elahi has been appointed to represent RAYLASE AG in UK & Ireland based from London. This will allow RAYLASE to serve customers better and offer faster turnaround times. The growth of business opportunities in UK and demand for even more competitive pricing has lead to the RAYLASE decision to deal direct with customers via a local Representative

Products

RAYLASE products are top quality, adaptable solutions that deliver essential features, minimize development costs, and accelerate time to market. From single axis galvanometer scanners, XY deflection units to innovative 3 axis subsystems and devices for opto-mechanical laser power control (PCD), their solutions offer flexibility, easy integration, proven reliability and exceptional value.

The product range encompasses deflection heads for CO<sub>2</sub>, HeNe, Nd:YAG lasers, diode and argon lasers with the maximum power capacity for these products between a few milliwatts to 1.5 kilowatts.

The patented PCD (Power Control Device) enables precise control of CO<sub>2</sub> laser power stability. This allows many companies involved in printing, packaging, electronics; textile and the automotive industry to successfully utilise a wide range of advanced applications. Common applications include marking, scribing, engraving, cutting, drilling, perforating, welding & soldering, hardening, rapid prototyping and tooling of different materials like plastics, metal, glass, wood, paper, ceramic, stone or leather.

"My goal is to expand the business in the UK and Ireland and to maintain Raylase as an industry leader by continually being proactive and delivering innovative products and solution to our customers with the customer care that they expect" said Mac Elahi.

RAYLASE is not only a manufacturer of high quality specialist products, but also a customer focused problem-solver and innovator, which strives to respond with creativity and flexibility to your needs and the high demands that you will face in the future.
